The Firefly Story

Why a Café?

Food service enterprises have proven to be a great launching pad for providing real world training in a field in which there is a continual need for qualified applicants. Simply put, there are real jobs out there for folks interested in working in the food services industry.

Why not name it NW Works Café?

To be successful in the daunting world of food service, first and foremost, a café must have exceptional food and warm, meaningful service. Although we are very proud of the NW Works name and brand, at Firefly, we're selling an outstanding dining experience first, and almost as an aside, we're employing folks with disabilities and other barriers to employment. We didn't want a name that implied that you should come to our café because you'll be helping people; instead, we want you to come for the food (and the outstanding coffee from Orange County Roasters!), and oh, by the way, you're also helping to change a life or two with each bite of that delicious (homemade) scone or cinnamon roll.

Why Firefly?

Fireflies, or lightning bugs as they are sometimes called, are ordinary looking creatures during the day, but quite something to behold when glowing at night. The symbolic message to us humans is that although our physical appearance may seem one way – it is our internal makings – what is inside us (such as our spirit) that makes us shine from the inside out. That which is within us will always illuminate us and those around us. That's true for fireflies and for individuals with disabilities as well. Give them a second look—what may seem ordinary to the naked eye might just be someone with a little magic in them!
